

The Comicall Historie of

That you yet know not of ; wee see our husbands
Before they think of us ?

Nerrissa. Shall they see us ?

Portia. They shall Nerrissa : but in such a habite,
That they shall think we are accomplished
With that we lack ; Ile hold thee any wager
When we are both accoutred like young men,
Ile prove the prettier fellow of the two,
And weare my dagger with the braver grace,
And speake betweene the change of man and boy,
With a reed-voice, and turne two mincing steps
Into a manly stride, and speake of frayes,
Like a fine bragging youth : and tell quaint lyes,
How honourable Ladies fought my love,
Which I denying, they fell sicke and dyed.
I could not doe withall : then Ile repent,
And wish for all that, that I had not killd them :
And twenty of these punie lyes Ile tell,
That men shall sweare I have discontinued schoole
Above a twelve-moneth : I have within my minde,
A thousand raw tricks of these bragging lackes,
Which I will practise.

Nerriss. Why, shall wee turne to men ?

Port. Fie, what a question's that ?

If thou wert nere a lewd Interpreter :
But come, Ile tell thee all my whole device,
When I am in my Coach, which stayes for us
At the Parke gate : and therefore haste away,
For we must measure twentie miles to day.

Exeunt.

Enter Clowne and Iessica.

Clow. Yes truly ; for looke you, the sinnes of the Father are to be laid upon the Children, therefore I promise you, I feare you, I was alwayes plaine with you, and so now I speak my agitation of the matter : therefore be of good cheere, for truly I think you are damn'd, there is but one hope in it that can doe you any good, and that is but a kinde of bastard hope neither.

Iess. And what hope is that, I pray thee ?

the Merchant of Venice.

Clown. Mary you may partly hope that your father got you nor, that you are not the Jewes daughter.

Iessica. That were a kind of bastard hope in deed, so the sinnes of my mother should be visited upon me.

Clowne. Truly then I feare you are damn'd both by father and mother : thus when I shun Scilla your father, I fall into Charibdis your mother ; well, you are gone both wayes.

Iessica. I shall be sav'd by my husband, he hath made me a Christian ?

Clow. Truly the more too blame he, we were Christians enow before, euen as many as could well live one by another : this making of Christians wil raise the price of hogs, if we grow all to be pork eaters, we shall not shortly have a rasher on the coales for money.

Enter Lorenzo.

Iessi. Ile tel my husband Launcelet what you say ; here he comes.

Loren. I shall grow jealous of you shortly Launcelet, if you thus get my wife into corners.

Iessi. Nay, you need not feare us Lorenzo, Launcelet and I are out, he tels me flatly there's no mercy for me in heaven, because I am a Jewes daughter : and he sayes you are no good member of the common-wealth, for in converting Jewes to Christians, you raise the price of porke.

Loren. I shall answer that better to the common-wealth than you can the getting up of the Negroes belly : the Moore is with child by you Launcelet.

Clowne. It is much that the Moore should be more then reason : but if she be lesse then an honest woman, she is indeed more then I tooke her for.

Loren. How every foole can play upon the word, I think the best grace of wit will shortly turne into silence, and discarse grow commendable in none onely but Parrats ; go in sirra, bid them prepare for dinner.

Clowne. That is done sir, they have all stomachs.

Lor. Goodly Lord what a wit snapper are you, then bid them prepare dinner.

Clowne. That is done to sir, onely cover is the word.

Loren. Will you cover than sir ?

Clowne. Not so sir neither, I know my duty.

G

Loren. Yet
